REVIEW

The Enns Family Singers Present "The Good Times"

A review by Al Reimer

rie Performances Manitoba Inc. presents The Enns Family and Friends Sing—In Allen Guten Stunden ("The Good Times"), February 10, 11, 12, 1988, at the Mel Richardson Auditorium, Winnipeg Gallery.

Like Old Man River, Kurt Waldheim and Mousetrap, the Enns Family Singers keep rolling along. This year's program, their fourth since 1982, was billed In allen guten Stunden ("The Good Times") and so they were for three rocking evenings at the Art Gallery. So popular has this amateur group become that two evenings no longer suffice to accommodate all the Mennonites (and others) who flock to hear them. And all the concerts played to full houses.

Having used up all my favorite superlatives in previous reviews of the Enns family's artistry, I'm forced to invent new ones or risk repeating myself, something the Singing Ennses never seem to do. As in previous concerts, Brother Ernest, the main leader (dee Eppashta fonn dee unse Schwoarm), looking more patriarchal than ever, got the evening off to a lively start with his witty opening remarks and vigorous conducting of the opening song.

As usual the five Enns brothers set the performance pace for the rest of the group. And just when you think you know exactly what these five can do on stage they surprise you with something different. This time two of them — Sig and John — demonstrated that they don't have to take a back seat to sister Selma and her husband Peter when it comes to reciting poetry. Anybody who can make that old school chestnut "The Ships of Yule" sound as interesting and dramatic as Brother Sig did knows something about the fine art of recitation. And Brother John followed with an excellent reading of Salus' German poem "Kammermusik." Not that Selma and Peter Enns were upstaged. Not even the combined presence of Marilyn Monroe, Elizabeth Taylor and Mae West in their prime could ever have upstaged Selma. Her sensitive rendition of "Kennst du das Land wo die Zitronen blühen" was movingly contrasted with Peter's rendition of the parody "Kennst du das Land wo die Kanonen blühen."

Brother Harry, his bass voice as robust as ever, sang "Song of the Dnieper River" in Ukrainian, and Brother Henri not only served as conductor but sang several beautiful solos and combined with folksinger Don Milne on a couple of humorous folk ballads. All five brothers combined for a spirited version of "When the Roll is Called up Yonder." And deserving of a special mention is Vera, Sig's wife, who as piano accompanist never once faltered in playing a dazzling array of musical styles and forms.

The younger generation of Ennses and friends also shone. Noreen Gafic, daughter of Irene and Ernest Enns, conducted the ladies section of the choir with all the flair and élan of her father. Eleanor Isaak sang the dramatic song "Der Rote Sarafan" with good effect while her husband regaled the audience with the solo parts of "The Hippopotamus Song." Catherine Enns skilfully read an excerpt from Cyrano de Bergerac and husband Paul participated in a hilarious reading of "The Owl and the Pussycat." Other effective soloists were Alfred Penner, James Schellenberg and Abe Peters. The concert was brought to a hearty close with a medley of Canadian folksongs from all the main regions of the country.

What continues to intrigue me is not only the fine, disciplined artistry of the Enns family, but the impressive variety of skills and repertoire they can muster as individuals and collectively. Not only are they completely at home with English and German, not to mention forays into Plautdietsch, Russian and Ukrainian, but they have an intuitive grasp of a wide variety of musical and literary forms — from their beloved German folksongs to Negro spirituals, from classical poems to nonsense verse. A simple, sincere, straight-to-the-heart style and treatment are the magic ingredients that make this family of amateur entertainers so appealing. The program notes state that this might be the last of these wonderful concerts. I can fully appreciate the enormous amount of time and energy required to bring off these seemingly artless evenings. And even the Ennses repertoire isn't inexhaustible, extensive though it is.

But say it ain't so Ernest, and Sig and John and Harry and Henri and Selma and Peter and Marlies and Irmgard and Vera! We need you all to remind us every year or two that not everything in our confusing world is changing beyond recognition, that some things remain the same and even get better, that our old sane, safe Mennonite ethnic world has not yet faded irrevocably into the crude bedlam of pop culture and TV monomania. We need you to share with us, periodically, "I'm Kreise der Liebe" in "This Golden Land" "In allen guten Stunden" the artistic riches and cultural values you have accumulated and nurtured over the years.

The Singing Ennses Soar Again

review by Al Reimer

The Enns Family and Friends Singers Present The Circle of Friends Revisited, Muriel Richardson Auditorium, Winnipeg Art Gallery, October 25 and 26th, 1985.

Yes, folks, the singing Enns clan has done it again! Like one of those legendary circus families performing on the high wire or trapeze, this mighty Enns team never faltered as they took their ensemble act through another dazzling evening of popular stage entertainment at the Muriel Richardson Auditorium. This time there were 37 of them, and with their usual Enns chutzpa (Driest-neit, opp Plautdietsch) they made the Art Gallery ring with old favorites like Drunten im Unterland, Stenka Razin, and On that great gettin' up mornin'. The opening songs were accompanied by informal color slides of the family on trips or simply enjoying nature. In between songs they recited poems in three languages, told funny stories and anecdotes and deftly picked the hearts of their capacity audiences for two nights running.

In an age of increasingly sophisticated entertainment, where else could you find a public performance as delightfully old-fashioned, shamelessly sentimental and artistically wholesome as this? Unlike their last one two years ago, this Enns program had no overt theme, but was designed simply to create, as clan leader Brother Ernest put it, "an atmosphere of Gemütlichkeit. It had all the variety, spontaneity and casual charm of family sing-song around the old parlor fireplace. One suspects that the Enns clan still does this sort of thing every time they get together. In their enthusiasm, offhandedness and sheer joy of performing they are amateurs, all right, but with a difference. Putting together a program like this requires an immense outlay of time, energy and dedication, as well as considerable talent. And these singing Ennses have all those qualities and then some.

As usual they sang familiar German, 18/mennonite mirror/november 1985

English and Russian folksongs and Negro spirituals in no particular order but always with zest and the kind of innate good taste that is characteristic of this group. The highlight of the evening for me and for most of the audience, I'm sure, was Brother Harry's thrilling rendition of Stenka Razin, accompanied by brothers John and Henri on the guitar and balalaika, respectively. Harry Enns' ringing bass is still in fine estate and song and singer suited each other to perfection. The Five Brothers — Ernest, Sig, Harry, John and Henri combined for a hilarious "old men's" version of Love's Old Sweet Song. I also enjoyed Henri's solo In einem kühlen Grunde, Sig's cavernous basso rendering of Jacob's Ladder and Eleanor Isaak's sweetly sung Our Bright Summer Days. The full choir sang a hauntingly beautiful Müde bin ich, geh' zur Ruh and a lovely Die Lore am Tore.

The readings were as varied and skilfully done as the singing. Irmgard Friesen read a Fritz Reuter poem in flawless Mecklenburger Platt, followed by Butch Isaak with a poem in Moloch-naya Plautdietsch (the Mennonite Low German sounds "flatter," less like High German). Horst Friesen read a humorous 1985 version of Snow White and Peter Enns delivered two German poems in his usual polished style. And Selma Enns scored a palpable hit with her I wish I didn't talk so much. Selma has a unique way of acting out a poem. Marie Enns gave a graceful reading of an English poem. Another touching moment of evening came when young Cathy Enns rose bravely from her wheelchair and presented a red rose to a cousin standing in for a great-aunt.

This was the third such Enns concert and if the audience has anything to say about it, it won't be the last one. What is the source of this family's genuine appeal as performers? Could it be that we see them as representing a style of family life that flourished among Mennonites in Russia and here in Canada at one time but that is now rapidly declining? That style was, of course, based on the clan concept, the family as a complete social organism working together, playing together, praying together. It was patriarchal in structure, stable in form, devout and purposeful in spirit. With its German cultural orientation this way of life tried to preserve a sense of generational continuity and fostered a narrow but healthy artistic refinement. Listening to the Enns family present these unpretentious bits of folk culture gives one the illusion of time standing still, as though we are still in the innocent, naively hopeful earlier decades of this century.

But time is rushing by after all. One wonders how long this fine family will be able to preserve their archaic but immensely appealing style of popular entertainment. How precious, fragile and personal this warm cultural gesture seems when set beside the noisy ape-strut and blasting cacophony of the Rock Era. For a brief moment, at least, the Enns family created the illusion that we all once shared a saner, sweeter, more caring world than the one towards which we are now being helplessly propelled.

May the Enns Family lead us into their magic Circle of Friends again soon. Komt boold wada, jo? mm
